To the Christian Reader.

IT was not my meaning (Gentle reader) whē I first published this litle treatise, so soone again to haue imprinted it: but after some more distance of time, and with more mature deliberatiō to haue performed my promise of perfecting the same: yet when I saw the first impressiō so suddenly dispersed, and a greater number required: I was contēt once againe to let it passe the presse, without that extreme & last hand which my desire was to haue put into it. But because I durst not so far abuse thy patiēce, as in nothing to increase the former edition: it may please thee to vnderstand, that I haue taken care in good part, to better and to amend the same, for thy benefite. For besides the correction, inlargement, and addition of many necessarie & profitable things, I haue now also set downe in a maner the whole Historie of the Gospel, from point to point, as I could collect the same out of the Euangelists. Observing also after the iudgement of the best Chronographers of our age, the yeare and time wherein euerie thing was done. Further I haue distinguished the whole booke into six periodes of yeares, as I thought would fitliest serue for helpe of thy memorie, and to auoid confusion & tediousnesse in so great varietie. Moreouer, I haue added vnto this edition an Index of the names of all the the Patriarches, Iudges, Kings, Prophets, Priests, Emperors, Gouvernors, Countries, Citties, Persons, Bookes &c. which though perhaps it may seeme to some in so small a volume altogither superfluous: yet I perswade my selfe thou shalt finde it in vse both pleasant and profitable vnto thee. For the things which alreadie I haue admonished thee of in my former preface, I thinke not necessarie now againe to trouble thee with the. Onely thou maist vnderstand, that the principall causes of that difference which is betwene myne Author and Functius with others, in accounting the yeres of the world, by his adding to their nūber almost 180. yeares; are these three, First that Codomanus taketh nothing from the yeares expresse mentioned in the storie of Iudges :

Secondly that according to S. Stephen Actes 7. he setteth the death of Tharah before that peregrination of Abrahā, which he being 75. yeres old, vndertooke at the commandmēt of God Gē. 12. And thirdly that he beginneth the yeares of the Grecians raigne, mētioned in the books of the Machabees, immediatly after the death of Alexander the great. VVherein because his meaning was not to preiudicate the opinion of others, but simply to expresse his own iudgemēt; it ought not to be to any an occasion of offence. If it shal mislike thee that I haue taken so manie things out of the Apocrypha and other writers, besides the bookes of the Canonick scriptures : it may please thee to vnderstand, that finding ding it done by mine Author, onely to cōtinue the Historie, & for other cōplemēt, I could not conueniently neglect the same. Holding firmly neuerthelesse, that knowne and necessarie differēce in authority, which is betweene the sacred monuments of the spirit of God, and the fraile & doubtfull writings of men. If anie further thing haue escaped the diligence of the Printer, in so many numbers of so great difference, I pray thee gentle Reader friendlie to correct what thou findest to be amisse. And so I bid thee most heartily farewell in the Lord. This eigth of Iune. Anno. Dom. 1590.

WORLD, VNTO THE YEARE OF our Lord 137. containing 4279. yeares. Wherin the seuerall Histories of holy Scripture are briefly comprised, and placed in their iust order.

The whole may be deuided into seven periods.

The first period from Adam his Creation unto the birth of Noah hath 1056. yeares.

He first day of the world
God created Heauen
and earth, containing a cōfused masse, wherof
afterwardes all things were made. This day was our Sondag, or the Lordes day: and as is thought, the 22. day of the moneth of Aprill.

Then God created the light, separated it from the darkenesse, and called it Day. Genesis 1.1.5.
The second day being our Monday, God made the firmament, and called it by the name of Hea-uens. Gen. 1.6.8.

The third day which was our Tuesday, God separated the waters from couering the earth, which at his commandement brought forth grasse, hearbes, and trees, hauing their seede and fruit. Gen. 1. 9. 13.

Sunne, Moone, Starres.	4	The fourth day being our Wednesday, God made & placed in the firmament of Heauē, the Sunne Moone, and Starres. Gen. 1. 14. This day being the fīue and twentieth of Aprill, was that time of the Spring wherein the daies and nights are of one length. Then also the Moone was in the Prime. Other referre the creation vnto the moneth of September.
Fish and foules.	5	The fifth day which was our Thursday, God made the fishes and foules, with all that liue in the waters, and flie in the aire Gen. 1. 20. 23.
Beastes &amp;c.	6	The sixth day, our Friday, God created first all beasts and things creeping vpon the earth. Gen. 1. 24. 31. Secondly Adam and Eue according to the image of God. Gen. 1. 26. The same day marriage was instituted. Gen. 2. 22, 23.
Man and woman. Marriage.
The Sabbath.	7	The seauenth day, our Saturday, God hauing finished his worke of creation, ceased or rested, sanctified this day vnto man, and called it the Sabbath. Gen. 2. 3.
Creation of Angels.		The creation of the Angels is most probably assigned vnto the first day. Of these some hold the integritie of their creation, and are called holy and elect Angels: some are false, and called Devils, whose fall is most certaine; but the time of their fall vncertaine: sauing that they must needes fall before the fall of man.
The fall of Angels.
The fall of Man.		The fall of Adam and Eue being most certaine, the day and time is vncertaine: and therefore it is curiositie to inquire, where the word keepeth silence, and boldnes to pronounce. That they fell not the day of their creation, beside the multitude rude & variety of things done before and after the same day, which requireth tract of time: This seemeth plainly to argue, that the sixth day is concluded by Moses, with these words: And God beheld all that he had made, and lo it was exceeding good: so the evening and morning was made the sixth day Codomannus assigneth Adams fall vnto the nineteenth day of the world, which was the fourteenth of the first moneth, and the tenth of May. His reason is from the institution of the Pascheouer. Exod. 12. Some referre it vnto the eighth day, in which Christ rose from the dead.	19

The same day wherein they fell, they receaued the promise of grace in the seede of the woman, which should breake the Serpents head. Gen. 3. 15.	Man restored.
In the end of the first yere of the world were borne Caiin and Abel (if they were twinnes.) If also these were the first of Adams children, as should appeare by the reason of Caiin his name. Gen. 4. 1.	Caiin and Abel, b.
After this vnto the murther of Abel, the family of Adam was greatly multiplied in both sexes: And therefore the same is most fitly to be assigned vnto the yeare 129. or not much lesse. Gen. 4. 8.	Abel slaine.
About the ende of this yeare Seth was borne, in whom the line of Christ was continued, which seemed vnto Eue to be broken off in the death of Abel. Gen. 5. 3.	129.
Enosh was borne, when Seth his father was one hundred and fīue yeares old. Then began Religion to be corrupted euen in the Church and house of Adam, by familiaritie and entermaying with the house of Caiin. Gen. 5. 6.	130. Seth, b.
